

The Roanoke Valley SPCA is a private non-profit animal shelter that accepts cats and dogs from the public, in the form of owner surrender. All owner surrenders are scheduled by appointment.

The Roanoke Valley SPCA also partners with other releasing agencies (both private and public, such as other rescue groups and municipal shelters). All intake, regardless of source, is based on resource availability, including but not limited to space.

Rarely, does the Roanoke Valley SPCA directly admit stray pets into our center. We believe that guardians who have lost their pets need a central location to find them, the local municipal agency, instead of searching every shelter and rescue organization within our community.

The Roanoke Valley SPCA is a community resource that provides pet adoption, retention, and education services in Virginia's Blue Ridge.
