Animal Intake Policy

Angels of Assisi is a private animal shelter and accepts cats, dogs, rabbits, hamsters, and guinea pigs from the public, in the form of owner surrenders, and from other releasing agencies, both in-state and out of state, dependent on space availability. Angels of Assisi also takes in farm animals dependent on space availability and houses them at their farm sanctuary, Harmony Farm Sanctuary, including cows, pigs, horses, goats, donkeys, peacocks, and chickens.

Occasionally, Angels of Assisi does take in stray animals, though this is not the shelter's primary function. Based on municipal laws, these animals have a stray hold of 5 days or 10 days. Stray animals are taken into custody on a case-by-case basis.

Angels of Assisi is committed to their lifesaving work and helps take in the animals that have the most need.
